About the Presentation:

Designing, Building, and Doing Business in a Challenging Economy

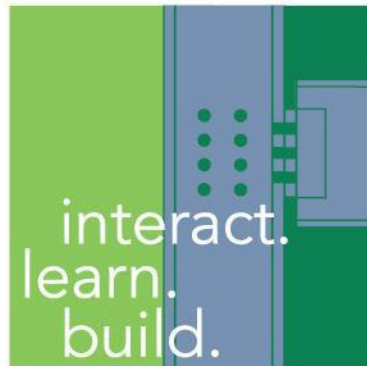

In today's economy it is essential to stay current on the status of your market. Methods to monitor the overall domestic market as well as the steel fabricator's local market will be discussed. Useful indices (and where to find them), historic trends, publications and specialized data that can be developed by your company as well as a roadmap of current economic conditions will be presented. This information can aid in strategic planning and improve your bottom line. The presentation is registered with AIA for Continuing Education (1 hour).
